Description

The HARO unisex kitchen jacket fits both men and women, making it ideal for any member of the team. Its stylish and versatile design makes it a professional and attractive garment.

The long sleeves with turn-up cuffs not only add style, but also allow for a custom fit at the wrists.

The crossover fastening with concealed press studs adds a touch of sophistication to the jacket's design, while making it easy to get ready for work.

The jacket is made from Klopmam Naturewear fabric, which combines 50% recycled polyester and 50% organic cotton. This fabric is a sustainable and environmentally friendly choice and is part of Gary's Uniforms Naturewear line.

The back of the jacket features Aerosilver technical fabric, which offers breathability and helps maintain a fresh, bacteria-free working environment, which is essential in the kitchen.

The semi-fitted cut with front and back seams provides a stylish yet comfortable look.

The combination of recycled polyester and organic cotton in the fabric demonstrates a commitment to environmental sustainability. This choice of materials helps to reduce the negative impact on the environment.
