Description

The ARIAS unisex kitchen jacket features a versatile design with long sleeves, a shirt collar and a crossover fastening with concealed press studs, featuring an exposed wooden button. This design combines sophistication with functionality, which is essential for hospitality professionals who want to look good while working.

The turned-up cuffs allow for a comfortable fit at the wrists and the flexibility needed for precise culinary tasks.

The jacket is made from white microfibre, made from 100% recycled polyester.

The choice of recycled polyester demonstrates a commitment to sustainability, reducing the carbon footprint and promoting the reuse of materials.

Microfibre is known for its durability and stain resistance, which is essential in the busy kitchen environment.

The inclusion of AEROSILVER technical fabric in the centre back provides breathability and bacteria resistance, which is vital in the kitchen environment.

The jacket is designed to fit both men and women, allowing for uniformity of style across the work team.

The ARIAS jacket offers an environmentally friendly solution without sacrificing elegance or durability.
